fore the Railway Committee Saturday

RECENT CRIME AND THE PUBLIC SECURITY.

Our readers cannot fail to have been shocked by the number and atrocity of the murders perpetrated in the Territories quite recently, and it is greatly to be regretted there has been something like a want of success in tracing up and speedily capturing the perpetrators of these deeds of blood. In such a large and thinly peopled county, however, there is little wonder if evil-doers should now and then succeed in escaping the hands of justice for a time—but we earnestly and confidently hope the efforts of the authorities (who are fully alive to the absolute necessity of putting forth their utmost exertions) will be quickly successful in capturing every suspect and bringing the guilty to swift and condign punishment.

It always happens that when any great crime, such as murder, occurs in a neighborhood, a natural horror at the crime and sympathy for the victim causes a thrill as it were to pass through the people, and a sort of restless anxiety takes and holds possession of them till the perpetrators are known to be in safe custody and amenable to the outraged laws of the country. But when it happens that delays in tracing out and capturing the criminals take place, as they often enough do, the public anxiety becomes intensified, and not unfrequently the disappointment finds vent in grumbling at some one or other—generally at the police—as they of course are always on hand and chief actors on such occasions.

We regret to see in the correspondence of more than one of our contemporaries that the North West Mounted Police are coming in for some castigation at present for incapacity and so forth, due to their non-success in making captures in connection with the murders we have referred to. It is absurd, however, to utter wholesale condemnation against the Force because in some isolated instances individuals of them have failed to do what the public certainly looks for, but what may be very difficult or almost impossible of execution for all that. We never sympathize with these wholesale charges against the Force, for we do not think them at all well founded. If people in general were only able to realize the difficulties the Police have often to contend with in following up a clue or trail, they would be more lenient in their strictures, for they would sometimes find the fault lay not so much in the incapacity of the Police as in their own impatience and want of knowledge.

As we have said, we hope and trust the authorities will speedily have all these criminals in custody. In fact this is doubly called for, not only to satisfy the ends of justice, but to allay the feeling of insecurity which has been produced and is growing, especially in the outlying settlements. Confidence requires to be restored and maintained, and something especially requires to be done for the security of the travelling public and the mails over the long and almost unprotected route from here to the railway. Whether this may be best accomplished by a complete system of Police escorts or patrols and stations or otherwise it is for those in power to decide, but whatever arrangements are to be made should be thoroughly efficient and should be organized at once.

COMMUNICATIONS.

It must be distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by correspondents. Correspondents must give their names in full, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

"SEED GRAIN"

To the Editor of the Times.

Sir,—In a letter on the above subject in your issue of the 10th inst., in which Mr. John McTaggart of the Dominion Land Office asks "Would it not be advisable for the public committee to transform their proposed hospital to a lunatic asylum for the benefit of the seed grain committee of the Lorne Agricultural Society?"

This is a joke. It does not belie its paternity either, for there is here a sort of juvenile freshness in conception and softened mildness in expression very characteristic of the worthy author. This letter brings Mr. McTaggart before your readers in the character of funny man or small joker. It may happen to strike some of them he would have felt more at home in the part of walking gentleman or heavy father, but there is really no accounting for taste and his present appearance has at least all the effect of novelty.

There is indeed a strong suspicion that Mr. McTaggart means to be sarcastic at the grain committee's expense, but they should forgive his intentions in that line out of sympathy for his efforts as a light comedian. Mr. McTaggart, however, should not again make use of the lunacy joke. It is pointless and stale from age, and he himself must be convinced of its staidness when he sees it in print and thinks how easily one might resort to a similar vein were not such a style of writing contemptible and beneath notice.

Mr. McTaggart endeavors to poke fun at the seed grain committee because they recommended one lot of oats to be bought from a settler. Now what are the facts? First of all the committee suggested that Government should buy any seed grain of suitable quality that might be offered within the district and Mr. McTaggart advertised to that effect. There was no expectation that a large quantity would be forthcoming, or else what sense was there in asking so much to be sent from outside? In point of fact only three local samples of oats and two of barley were submitted to the committee. They passed two of the oat samples and of these it transpired that one belonged to a merchant in town who sold the bulk and withdrew his sample before it was reported on. The other sample belonged to a well known farmer, and was quite good in quality but a little deficient in the matter of winning. The committee therefore in recommending it, directed attention to that fact, and that is what Mr. McTaggart calls "feebly recommending" the sample. But whether the recommendation was feeble or forcible there was surely nothing ridiculous in the matter, certainly nothing to justify absurd and insane jokes.

If Mr. McTaggart has been ignorant of the principle upon which the committee acted he may learn it from this, that supposing he had submitted fifty samples instead of five they would not have recommended one unless it had been, in their opinion, up to the mark in quality and on the other hand they would have passed the whole without exception had the whole been good enough. It was not the fault of the committee that few samples were sent in. All they had to do with this part of the business was to report on such samples as Mr. McTaggart himself laid before them. He sneers at the smallness of the quantity "of this one lot of about fifty bushels" as he says, but is it honest for him in his anxiety to strengthen what he thinks is a point against the committee to erroneously represent the quantity as "about fifty bushels," when in reality it was a good deal more than twice fifty? This may be a small matter, but he should have been particularly careful to advance nothing incorrect or misleading when he meant, in almost his next paragraph, to charge the committee with making an untrue statement in their report—a statement namely that some farmers had been refused oats and barley, while they were given to understand a quantity still remained on hand in store.

This is more serious than the lunacy joke, and should possibly be differently handled. I do not know who he is in saying the paragraph he quotes is "not true," Mr. McTaggart means to deny that any of the oats and barley were left over, but at all events he "challenges the seed grain committee to furnish the name of one single farmer who was refused oats or barley for seed purposes, and who had or was likely to have the land in condition for sowing." This challenge may likely enough be taken up by other parties, but in the meantime I will ask Mr. McTaggart (1st) Whether he refused any grain to Mr. John C. McNevin? (2nd) Whether on 31st May he told Mr. McNevin he might then have the grain he had previously asked for and been refused? (3rd) Whether Mr. McNevin declined to take the grain at that date because, on being refused it, he had prepared land only for what seed he had got and did not mean to start ploughing again so late in the season?

As this is purely an explanatory or, if you will, a defensive letter, I do not wish to travel beyond the record and purposely refrain from bringing forward any points of discussion other than those raised by Mr. McTaggart himself. The seed grain committee are prepared to justify all their proceedings including any report they have ever made and they believe, moreover they may, if they think proper, quite legitimately criticize the manner in which seed grain matters were conducted this Spring without, of necessity, being held as imputing obliquity of conduct or dereliction of duty to either Mr. McTaggart or any one else individually. Mr. McTaggart is a man under authority and for aught the committee know to the contrary he may have been rigidly tied down by instruction and left no freedom of action. The committee have no means of knowing about this—but since he has chosen to rush into print it is to be hoped he will not object to have this reply.

Yours truly,
WM. CRAIG.

TERRITORIAL NEWS

EDMONTON.

From the Bulletin, May 21.

Lamoureux Bros. rats left for Battleford Friday morning.

The amount authorized to be expended in improving the Bow river trail on North-West government account this season is $300.

Lamoureux Bros. arrived from their mill on Wednesday night with three rats of lumber, one for Edmonton and two for Battleford.

A. D. Osborne returned from an inspecting trip on Wednesday. He brought a large quantity of sandstone saturated with petroleum.

Assigned to the foreman of St. Albert, left for Prince Albert yesterday to assume his duties as clerk of the court in Saskatchewan district.

Seeding is practically over. The full acreage has been sown in Sturgeon county and Clover, Har settlements. A larger proportion of oats is being sown than last year. There is considerable grain and potatoes still on hand.

The coal discovery mentioned in the Bulletin last winter has been more thoroughly explored during the past week. Claims have been staked. The claims contain 40 acres each, 440 paces each way and the stakes hold for 90 days without entry. The claims all adjoin. It is proposed to form a partnership between the parties who have taken claims and procure a three inch auger with which to sink test holes a hundred feet, with a hope of striking a spring. Mr. Osborne goes east next week to procure the necessary machinery.

LETHBRIDGE.

From the News June 1.

The river is now bank full and still rising.

It is understood that the mines will be shut down for a short time soon to make some repairs.

At the sale of police horses on Thursday last prices ranged from $25 to $100. Five horses were sold.

Quite a few strange faces are to be seen around town lately, principally new arrivals from the east.

Town lots took a raise in price here on Thursday last, the company doubling the price on all they hold. The reason for the raise we have been unable to ascertain, but it is doubtless due to the prospect of their getting a charter for an extension of the road.

The new brick machine for Mr. Oliver arrived here last week and was put into position in the brickyard on Monday. Mr. A. J. Scott, who has charge, is hard at work getting the yard in working order, and expects to be able to burn a superior brick to any yet made in this district.

QU'APPELLE.

From the Progress, June 2.

All the business places were closed during the funeral of the late Hector McLeish.

Great praise is being bestowed by our remaining citizens upon those who are pursuing the murderers and horse thieves and at the progress they are making in having traced them so far successfully, being but sixteen hours behind them last evening.

Sergeant McPherson and Const. McKay came down from Prince Albert on Tuesday with warrants to apprehend the murderer of Smith at Touchwood, and on another charge two Indians that had taken refuge at Crooked Lakes. The murderer of Smith is known and is said to be at Tur the Mountain, across the boundary.

Rev. J. Bridger, of St. Nicholas Church, Liverpool, England, organizing Secretary of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, was in town this week. He came out from England in charge of a party of emigrants numbering 400, most of whom settled in Manitoba. Mr. Bridger is the originator of the convention of the Anglican church with emigration, and is one of the directors of Prof. Tanner's colonization scheme in the vicinity. He was very much pleased with Qu'Appelle and the country round about here.

REGINA.

From the Journal, June 2.

A benevolent service in Knox church, Regina, will be held on Sunday, 26th, inst. when the Rev. Dr. Hoyer, of Winnipeg, will occupy the pulpit.

The annual session of the Synod of the Diocese of Qu'Appelle is fixed for Tuesday the 27th day of June next, to be held in St. Peter's church, Qu'Appelle station.

Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. McKusker's mother, met with a misfortune last week. While handling a young calf, the cow knocked down and injured her severely, but under Dr. Dodd's treatment she has now almost recovered her usual health.

Mr. McCra's residence east of Broad street will be completed next week. Mr. Williamson is building a neat house on Cornwell street which will soon be finished. Excavation has been commenced on the site of the residence Mr. J. W. Smith is going to build on Rose street. Mr. T. E. Martin is also erecting a building with gothic arches, which he claims is for his horse. The general opinion, however, is that it could be very easily converted into a dwelling, and his bachelor friends are suspicious.

Twenty-five Mounted Police under Inspector Baker left on Friday night for Lethbridge to reinforce the troop there.

C. J. Atkinson, of the Journal, leaves on Tuesday morning next for a two weeks business trip.

They will look over the McLeod and Calgary country with a view of locating a ranch, and if nothing desirable is found in those sections they will return to the Hat and look over the Cypress Hills district. It is Mr. Pope's intention to put in a ranch of 1,000 or 1,500 head of thoroughbreds.

CALGARY.

From the Herald, June 3.

The last three days have been the dullist for business men this year.

Mrs. Dr. Potter and Miss Maggie McPherson passed through to Morley the other evening.

A gentleman from the country reports a case of glanders among a band of horses.

An attempt was made last night to burn the stables at present occupied by Mr. Frank Field. Mr. Miller was the first to notice the blaze, and immediately gave the alarm, when the men employed round the stable turned out and extinguished it. A close inspection showed that a woollen garment of some sort had been soaked in coal oil and shoved under the sill of one of the loose boxes. The stable had a narrow escape.

The herder who works for McKellar & Scott had a bad time this morning. His horse backed before he had settled in the saddle and damped him head on in front of Ford's stables, he was a little shaken up, but nothing daunted mounted again, and had went but a short distance when he was thrown once more. He mounted a third time and was thrown, mounted again, and when last seen he was chasing his horse over the prairie near Shaganappi. He may have been thrown, but he's got the pure grit in him.

The gang of men who are taking out the logs, felled down the Elbow, are making great progress and the larger lumber has now been landed.

22 new buildings can be counted in the west end of the town, from the Eau Claire flat.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. Lora, Ph.D."

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. H. A. Morr, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analysed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. JAY HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country. No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and boards of health all over the world.

Morr—The above diagram illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schröder. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schröder only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantages of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair-minded person of these facts.

While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

The result of the examinations in drawing and painting held the 1st of June at the art schools, mechanics institutes, high colleges, high schools and collegiate institutes throughout the province, has just been issued at Toronto by the board of examiners. The list shows an increase over the previous years in the number of candidates. The study of industrial designs received, more than ordinary attention and has been encouraged by the Education Department and by the Manufacturers' Association, which offered silver medals for that subject.
The Toronto Young Men's Liberal club held its third annual dinner the night of the 31st May, about 125 being present. Blake and Mowat sent letters of regret. Some about home taken would not risk for the future of the club. Canada's future was the topic of the evening and a very strong association feeling was expressed. President Gregory spoke in his usual gloomy manner on Canada's condition and declared himself a straight annexationist, as also did several other speakers.
